23 party only to Qualified Recipients. All Qualified Recipients shall hold such information received 24 from the disclosing party in confidence, shall use the information only for purposes of this action

Nonparties may challenge the confidentiality of Confidential Information by filing a motion to intervene and a motion to de-designate.

7. Inadvertent Failure to Designate

In the event that a producing party inadvertently fails to designate any of its information pursuant to paragraph 3, it may later designate by notifying the receiving parties in writing. The receiving parties shall take reasonable steps to see that the information is thereafter treated in accordance with the designation.

It shall be understood however, that no person or party shall incur any liability hereunder with respect to disclosure that occurred prior to receipt of written notice of a belated designation.

8. Inadvertent Disclosure

In the event of an inadvertent disclosure of another party's Confidential Information to a

1 non-Qualified Recipient, the party making the inadvertent disclosure shall promptly upon 2 learning of the disclosure: (i) notify the person to whom the disclosure was made that it contains 3 Confidential Information subject to this Order; (ii) make all reasonable efforts to preclude 4 dissemination or use of the Confidential Information by the person to whom disclosure was 5 inadvertently made including, but not limited to, obtaining all copies of such materials from the 6 non-Qualified Recipient; and (iii) notify the producing party of the identity of the person to 8 taken to ensure against the dissemination or use of the information.

9 9. Challenge to Designation

10 At any time after the delivery of Confidential Information, counsel for the party receiving 11 the Confidential Information may challenge the designation of all or any portion thereof by 12 providing written notice thereof to counsel for the party disclosing or producing the Confidential 13 Information. If the parties are unable to agree as to whether the confidential designation of 14 discovery material is appropriate, the party receiving the Confidential Information shall certify to 15 the Court that the parties cannot reach an agreement as to the confidential nature of all or a 16 portion of the Confidential Information. Thereafter, the party disclosing or producing the 17 Confidential Information shall have ten days from the date of certification to file a motion for 18 protective order with regard to any Confidential Information in dispute. The party producing the 19 Confidential Information shall have the burden of establishing that the disputed Confidential
20 Information is entitled to confidential treatment. If the party producing the Confidential 21 Information does not timely file a motion for protective order, the Confidential Information in 22 dispute shall no longer be subject to confidential treatment as provided in this Order. All
23 Confidential Information is entitled to confidential treatment pursuant to the terms of this Order
24 until and unless the parties formally agree in writing to the contrary, a party fails to timely move

1 for a protective order, or a contrary determination is made by the Court as to whether all or a
2 portion of designated Confidential Information is entitled to confidential treatment.

3 10. Conclusion of Action

4 At the conclusion of this action, including through all appeals, each party or other person 5 subject to the terms hereof shall be under an obligation to destroy or return to the producing 6 party all materials and documents containing Confidential Information and to certify to the 7 producing party such destruction or return. Such return or destruction shall not relieve said
8 parties or persons from any of the continuing obligations imposed upon them by this Order.

9 The provisions of this paragraph shall not be binding on any party or entity to the extent 10 that such provisions conflict with applicable Federal or State law. Any party or entity subject to 11 this order shall notify the producing party in writing of any such conflict it identifies in 12 connection with a particular matter so that such matter can be resolved either by the parties or by 13 the Court.

14 11. Jurisdiction to Enforce Protective Order

15 After the termination of this action, the Court will continue to have jurisdiction to enforce 16 this Order.

17 12. Modification of Protective Order

18 This Order is without prejudice to the right of any person or entity to seek a modification 19 of this Order at any time either through stipulation or Order of the Court.

20 13. Confidentiality of Party's Own Documents

21 Nothing herein shall affect the right of the designating party to disclose to its officers, 22 directors, employees, attorneys, consultants or experts, or to any other person, its own 23 information. Such disclosure shall not waive the protections of this Protective Order and shall 24 not entitle other parties or their attorneys to disclose such information in violation of it, unless by

1 such disclosure of the designating party the information becomes public knowledge. Similarly, 2 the Protective Order shall not preclude a party from showing its own information, including its 3 own information that is filed under seal by a party, to its officers, directors, employees, attorneys, 4 consultants or experts, or to any other person.

5 14. Compulsory Disclosure to Third Parties

6 If any receiving party is subpoenaed in another action or proceeding or served with a 7 document or testimony demand or a court order, and such subpoena or demand or court order
8 seeks Confidential Information, including Confidential Health Information of a producing party, 9 the receiving party shall give prompt written notice to counsel for the producing party and allow 10 the producing party an opportunity to oppose such subpoena or demand or court order prior to 11 the deadline for complying with the subpoena or demand or court order. No compulsory 12 disclosure to third parties of information or material exchanged under this Order shall be deemed 13 a waiver of any claim of confidentiality, except as expressly found by a court or judicial 14 authority of competent jurisdiction.

15 15. Binding Effect

16 This Order shall be binding upon the parties and their attorneys, successors, executors, 17 personal representatives, administrators, heirs, legal representatives, assigns, subsidiaries, 18 divisions, employees, agents, independent contractors, or other persons or organizations over 19 which they have control.
